Dear Sir or Madam:

I am writing because I am concerned about the Business Opportunity Rule R511993. It may prevent me from continuing as a distributor and affecting my families income and possibly my health as the money I make pays for my own product. I do understand the you desire to protect the public and I agree with that but I do not agree with the seven day waiting period. When you go into a store or go to buy a car you don't need to wait that long. This unnecessary because we give a 90% money back policy. This would create more paperwork as well.

I also have a hard time with the reference issue. I do not want to give total strangers personal information about people I really care about because of the identity theft that is going on. This will prevent people from wanting to sign up. Please reconsider this issue as well as the disclosure of lawsuits. It really doesn't make sense to me as anyone can get sued for anything these days.

I have been a diet seller for 2 years and it has been a great experience for me and my family. I appreciate all that it offers; I just started with manatech because of my health now I want to share everything it has done for me as well as the wonderful opportunity. I don't know what I would do without Mannatech products please reconsider the Business Opportunity Rule

RS 11993.

I would like you to know that I appreciate you and the FTC and what you stand for but I believe this new rule has many unintended consequences and that there are other ways to accomplish protection for consumers.

Thank you for your time,

Sincerely,
